

The Russian "alliance" manned spacecraft automatic docking with the International

According to the "voice of Russia" radio news November 24th, Russia "union -15" spacecraft 24 (Moscow time five fifty-three) Russian tanks "dawn" automatic docking with the international space station.

It is reported that the "union -15" load a new group of astronauts and Moscow time on 24 zero 01 points from the Baikonur launch to the international space station.

The report pointed out that the new space group includes the Russian space agency astronaut Anton Skaplerov, the European Space Agency astronaut Samantha Christoforetti and NASA astronaut Terry Villetts.

To the international space station after the "alliance" space group and the station astronaut Russian cosmonaut Alexander Samokoutia also husband, female Russian cosmonaut Elena Serova and astronaut Barry Vima joined the United states.